

ARIA HEALTH MEDICAL STAFF SPOTLIGHT

Christopher M. Aland, MD

Christopher M. Aland, MD
Orthopedic Surgeon
Aria Health

After 20 years in private practice in Bucks County, orthopedic surgeon Christopher M. Aland, MD, has joined Aria Health's orthopedic team with a new office location near the Oxford Valley Mall.

Dr. Aland specializes in arthroscopic treatments (limited incision) of the shoulder and knee, as he was one of the first practitioners in the area to perform Arthroscopic rotator cuff repair. He also is active in the care of athletes in Bucks County, and has been the team physician for Council Rock North and Pennsbury High Schools, as well as Morrisville High School, Philadelphia Bible University, Bucks County's local junior league hockey team and the Philadelphia Revolution.

Dr. Aland is a nationally recognized shoulder surgeon who has lectured for the Arthroscopy Association of North America at the Orthopedic Learning Center in Chicago and at their annual meetings. He is involved with the Residency Programs of both PCOM Orthopedics and Aria Family Practice and Emergency Room interns and residents. He was given Honorary Membership in the Pennsylvania State Athletic Trainers Association in 2008 in recognition for his service to athletes and athletic medicine. He is one of the few physicians in the state to receive this honor

Dr. Aland received his undergraduate degree from Loyola College in Baltimore, where he was a member of their lacrosse team, and graduated Summa Cum Laude. He continued his medical education in Baltimore at the University of Maryland, and completed his internship and residency at UMDNJ- Robert Wood Johnson Medical School in New Brunswick, New Jersey. He was a Major in the Army, and was the chief of Orthopedics at Fort Belvoir in Virginia before relocating to Bucks County.
